

02

THE AWKWARD ME

Ms. S. Lavanya
Assistant Professor
Department of English
Sri Sarada College for Women,
Salem, TN., India

----------

The confined spaces scare me
For they bring out the Awkward me

For instance. . .

Elevators
Where I used to think out loud
Owning the space
Only to be disturbed unexpectedly. . .
Unable to face the person opposite
Waiting to reach my floor
Without further contact
The Awkward Me
Jumps out of me!!!

When am unconsciously rude!!!!

For instance
When am lost in rumination
Staring at a person
Without knowing that
That person has been staring me all along
The Awkward Me
Creeps out of me!!!

When I need to ask for help!!!!
A Herculean task
Left unaccomplished
Most of the times
The reason being
The Awkward me!!!!
Happens everytime
Like every time . . .

My side of awkwardness emerge . . .

When I suddenly lock eyes with a stranger
Whom am never going to meet again
For sure. . .
Or not!!!!

When I accidentally bump
Into the person I like
On my bad hair day

When someone compliments me
And I for one never knew
How to take compliments in general

When I meet my once
Favourite person
Who has suddenly turned into a stranger

When am in a position
To pick a side
When both the sides have my favourites

When am around the people
I dislike
For no particular reason

When am around the people
I like
For obvious reasons

On and on and on. . .

Come to think of it!!!
Am almost always awkward
And say what
And I love the Awkward Me!!!!

This is an Open Access e-Journal Published Under A Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License

To Cite the Article: Lavanya, S., "The Awkward Me". Literary Cognizance, IV - 1 (June, 2023): 05-07. Web.

