

01

WHISPERS OF RAIN

Prof. Arjun Jadhav

Retired Professor

Department of English

Fergusson College, Pune, MS, India

=====***=====

When the monsoon showers plummet with its rhythmic beat,
Nature awakens, in harmony complete.
Raindrops fall gently, kissing the ground,
Transforming landscapes, a symphony profound.

The parched earth sighs with sweet relief,
As droplets quench its thirst, ending its grief.
Blossoms bloom, painted in vibrant hues,
Embracing the rain, refreshed and anew.

Rivers dance merrily, flowing free,
Carving their paths with unyielding glee.
Majestic waterfalls cascade in grace,
Nature's masterpiece, a breathtaking embrace.

The air breathes life, cleansed and pure,
With petrichor fragrance, an allure.
Leaves rustle, swaying with the breeze,
Whispering secrets, nature's expertise.

Creatures emerge, celebrating the rain,
From hidden nooks, they break their chain.
Birds sing in chorus, their melodies blend,
As if praising the sky for the gifts it sends.

For humans too, the monsoon brings delight,
An escape from heat, a respite from plight.
Children splash in puddles, faces lit with glee,
Laughing and dancing, joyful and carefree.

Farmers rejoice, their fields now blessed,
Seeds sown in hope, by nature caressed.

The promise of abundance fills the air,
A harvest of dreams, a season to share.

But amidst this beauty, we must be aware,
Of nature's power, of the storms it may bear.
For the monsoon's rage can cause distress,
Testing resilience, urging us to progress.

So let us cherish this gift from above,
The monsoon's embrace, a symbol of love.
May we tread gently, with gratitude and care,
Preserving nature's beauty, always aware.

For the advent of the monsoon, a magical sight,
Connects us all, igniting a sense of delight.
Nature and humans, intertwined in this dance,
United by raindrops, a bond we enhance.

This is an Open Access e-Journal Published Under A Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License

To Cite the Article: Jadhav, Arjun, "Whispers of Rain". Literary Cognizance, IV - 2 (September, 2023): 03-04. Web.