

02

LESSONS OF LIFE

Indrita Chakraborty

Assistant Professor of English, MLA Academy for Higher Learning, Bangalore, KS, India

Think of a day

When you were happy and gay,

Everything seemed perfect,

And you thought,

This was life.

It was just a matter of time

When life taught you

That what apparently

Seemed to be good

Can be described as just fine.

With that lesson in mind,

You went on...

With the grinding of life.

Now you are smart,

Matured enough,

You know how to deal with the surprises

Of life.

At this crux of life,

We live each day

With a lot of inhibitions,

Anticipations, expectations.

But now we know

That at any point of time,

Life can give a death blow.

We are matured-

At least we claim to be.

Even if we are happy

Throughout the day,

We can assume

The night need not be....

This is an Open Access e-Journal Published Under A Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License

Poem Received:05/07/2025

Poem Accepted:15/07/2025

Published Online:30/09/2025

To Cite the Poem: Chakraborty, Indrita. "Lessons of Life." Literary Cognizance: An International Refereed/Peer Reviewed e-Journal of English Language, Literature and Criticism, Vol.-VI, Issue-2, September, 2025, 06-07. www.literarycognizance.com